

2TALLIN'

“Future vs. Retro”

2TALLIN' was started by Travis Huff aka 2Tallin' (6'8”) after discovering his passion for producing and performing funky dance music.

All of the music produced by 2Tallin', is collaborative with PJW the next big hip hop producer!

Why 2TALLIN'? The name was developed from my unmistakable height. People always are saying you're so tall, or how tall are you? Therefore we wanted to capture our most recognizable asset... "Off Beat" was our 2nd song ever produced and has become the anthem of our music. We produce music with clean lyrics for all ages. Our motivation is to give our fans music that pumps them up with positive vibes, and a funky good time

Background of album "Future vs. Retro"

Imagine you're alone...sitting waiting for your partner to come home, but they decide your time is not valuable. So they stay out all night till the wee hours of the morning. You wake up feeling hurt, angry, but you say I love her so it's okay. You get married and try to start the All-American dream, you even write her love songs to show her that it's just a fun hobby. She doesn't believe you, and judges you for spending time trying to be a white rapper. She tells you that she can't accept your passion for music; she hates the attention you get on stage in front of other women. You fight back by getting your biggest gig to perform for headliner Mickey Avalon, you talk to her and she tells you to cancel the show or your marriage is over. You cancel the gig, cry for hours, delete all videos, music online, sell all your music equipment on eBay, and give up a dream. Then she leaves you again... after 7 years of giving up; you wake up.

On that day in December a Rockstar was born.
